Harness the healing power of art to prepare for an art therapy career.

Interested in helping others through the power of creativity? Art therapy is a mental health profession that uses art to promote wellness and facilitate change. Ursuline offers one of two art therapy bachelor's degree programs in Ohio, and it's the only place you can earn a dual master's degree in counseling and art therapy in the state.

You'll learn both theoretical foundations and practical experience while learning the diverse applications of art therapy. Built upon a dynamic, broad-based liberal arts foundation, the undergraduate art therapy program will help you develop the competence and compassion needed to become an effective human service professional in contemporary society.

You'll learn in the real world too, selecting your field placement(s) from 100+ partner organizations, teaming up with graduate students for international service learning trips, and practicing leadership within our art therapy student organization.

"I had a summer internship with the Cleveland Clinic Center for Autism where I had the wonderful opportunity of working with children with autism."
